AC/DC Author Talks Murder & Meth With KKBZ-FM/Fresno

Author Jesse Fink discusses AC/DC's future plans with The Morning Blaze with Gus & Izzy following charges made against drummer Phil Rudd

(NOVEMBER 2014) – In an interview courtesy of Envision Networks® Guest Services, author Jesse Fink spoke with The Morning Blaze with Gus & Izzy on KKBZ/Fresno, CA about the charges against AC/DC drummer Phil Rudd and what the future holds for the band. Fink is the author of the recently released book, The Youngs: The Brothers Who Built AC/DC.

“Well it would appear from the statement that AC/DC made yesterday that they’re preparing, or have been preparing for a tour without Phil Rudd,” Fink said. “I think the language in the statement made it clear to me anyway. [They were] using words like ‘Phil’s absence.’ There’s going to be a tour without him.”

Rudd was initially charged with attempting to procure murder, threatening to kill and possession of methamphetamine and cannabis. According to Rolling Stone, the charge of attempting to procure murder has been dropped due to “insufficient evidence.”

Fink wouldn’t speculate on the particulars of the case, including whom the targets of alleged threats were, but expects complete details to emerge. Listen to the full interview here:
